

tonyinosaka recommended: The New American

Recommend

HOME PAGE TODAY'S PAPER VIDEO MOST POPULAR TIMES TOPICS

Try Times Reader today Welcome, tonysilva0 Log Out Help

The New York Times | International Herald Tribune

GLOBAL EDITION

N.Y. / Region

Search All NYTimes.com

Go

WORLD U.S. N.Y. / REGION BUSINESS TECHNOLOGY SCIENCE HEALTH SPORTS OPINION ARTS STYLE TRAVEL JOBS REAL ESTATE AUTOS

Private Moment Made Public, Then a Fatal Jump

Center and right, The Star-Ledger

Tyler Clementi, left, is thought to have committed suicide, days after he was secretly filmed and broadcast on the Internet. Mr. Clementi's roommate, Dharun Ravi, center, and another classmate, Molly Wei, have been charged in the case.

By LISA W. FODERARO

Published: September 29, 2010

Correction Appended

It started with a Twitter message on Sept. 19: "Roommate asked for the room till midnight. I went into molly's room and turned on my webcam. I saw him making out with a dude. Yay."

Related*Cyberbullying and a Student's Suicide

Does the death of a Rutgers student argue for tougher laws against malicious acts online?

Join the DiscussionEnlarge This Image

Richard Perry/The New York Times
Mr. Clementi, a Rutgers University freshman, is thought to have jumped off the George Washington Bridge.

That night, the authorities say, the Rutgers University student who sent the message used a camera in his dormitory room to stream the roommate's intimate encounter live on the Internet.

And three days later, the roommate who had been surreptitiously broadcast — Tyler Clementi, an 18-year-old freshman and an accomplished violinist — jumped from the George Washington Bridge into the Hudson River in an apparent suicide.

The Sept. 22 death, details of which the authorities disclosed on Wednesday, was the latest by a young American that followed the online posting of hurtful material. The news came on the same day that Rutgers kicked off a two-year, campuswide project to teach the importance of civility, with special attention to the use and abuse of new technology.

Those who knew Mr. Clementi — on the Rutgers campus in Piscataway, N.J., at his North Jersey high school and in a community organization — were appalled by the

RECOMMENDTWITTERCOMMENTS \(888\)E-MAILSEND TO PHONEPRINTREPRINTSSHARE

Flash

Log in to see what your friends are sharing on nytimes.com. Privacy Policy | What's This?

Log In With FacebookWhat's Popular Now

TARP Bailout to Cost Less Than Once Anticipated

The Welcome Wrath of Angry Birds

Readers' Comments

Readers shared their thoughts on this article.

Read All Comments \(888\) »

played since his freshman year in high school. “It’s so painful. He was very friendly and had very good potential.”

The Middlesex County prosecutor’s office said Mr. Clementi’s roommate, Dharun Ravi, 18, of Plainsboro, N.J., and another classmate, Molly Wei, 18, of Princeton Junction, N.J., had each been charged with two counts of invasion of privacy for using “the camera to view and transmit a live image” of Mr. Clementi. The most serious charges carry a maximum sentence of five years.

Mr. Ravi was charged with two additional counts of invasion of privacy for trying a similar live feed on the Internet on Sept. 21, the day before the suicide. A spokesman for the prosecutor’s office, James O’Neill, said the investigation was continuing, but he declined to “speculate on additional charges.”

Steven Goldstein, chairman of the gay rights group Garden State Equality, said Wednesday that he considered the death a hate crime. “We are sickened that anyone in our society, such as the students allegedly responsible for making the surreptitious video, might consider destroying others’ lives as a sport,” he said in a statement.

At the end of the inaugural event for the university’s “Project Civility” campaign on Wednesday, nearly 100 demonstrators gathered outside the student center, where the president spoke. They chanted, “Civility without safety — over our queer bodies!”

It is unclear what Mr. Clementi’s sexual orientation was; classmates say he mostly kept to himself. Danielle Birnbohm, a freshman who lived across the hall from him in Davidson Hall, said that when a counselor asked how many students had known Mr. Clementi, only 3 students out of 50 raised their hands.

But Mr. Clementi displayed a favorite quotation on his Facebook page, from the song “I’ll Never Fall in Love Again”: “What do you get when you kiss a guy? You get enough germs to catch pneumonia.”

And his roommate’s Twitter message makes plain that Mr. Ravi believed that Mr. Clementi was gay.

A later message from Mr. Ravi appeared to make reference to the second attempt to broadcast Mr. Clementi. “Anyone with iChat,” he wrote on Sept. 21, “I dare you to video chat me between the hours of 9:30 and 12. Yes, it’s happening again.”

Ms. Birnbohm said Mr. Ravi had said the initial broadcast was an accident — that he viewed the encounter after dialing his own computer from another room in the dorm. It was not immediately known how or when Mr. Clementi learned what his roommate had done. But Ms. Birnbohm said the episode quickly became the subject of gossip in the dormitory.

Mr. Clementi’s family issued a statement on Wednesday confirming the suicide and pledging cooperation with the criminal investigation. “Tyler was a fine young man, and a distinguished musician,” the statement read. “The family is heartbroken beyond words.”

The Star-Ledger of Newark reported that Mr. Clementi posted a note on his Facebook page the day of his death: “Jumping off the gw bridge sorry.” Friends and strangers have turned the page into a memorial.

Witnesses told the police they saw a man jump off the bridge just before 9 p.m. on Sept. 22, said Paul J. Browne, the New York Police Department’s chief spokesman. Officers

MOST POPULAR

E-MAILED BLOGGED SEARCHED VIEWED

1. Making Math Lessons as Easy as 1, Pause, 2, Pause ...
2. Pogue's Posts: Turn an iPod into an iPhone
3. Foreclosures Slow as Document Flaws Emerge
4. Line by Line: Hatching the Pot
5. Really?: The Claim: Gargling With Salt Water Can Ease Cold Symptoms
6. State of the Art: A Simple Swipe on a Phone, and You're Paid
7. TARP Bailout to Cost Less Than Once Anticipated
8. Paul Krugman: Taking On China
9. David Brooks: The Austerity Caucus
10. Gail Collins: Waiting for Somebody

Go to Complete List »

discovered a wallet there with Mr. Clementi's identification, Mr. Browne said.

The police said Wednesday night that they had found the body of a young man in the Hudson north of the bridge and were trying to identify it.

Officials at Ridgewood High School, where Mr. Clementi graduated in June, last week alerted parents of current students that his family had reported him missing and encouraged students to take advantage of counseling at the school.

The timing of the news was almost uncanny, coinciding with the start of "Project Civility" at Rutgers, the state university of New Jersey. Long in the planning, the campaign will involve panel discussions, lectures, workshops and other events to raise awareness about the importance of respect, compassion and courtesy in everyday interactions.

Events scheduled for this fall include a workshop for students and administrators on residential life on campus and a panel discussion titled "Uncivil Gadgets? Changing Technologies and Civil Behavior."

Rutgers officials would not say whether the two suspects had been suspended. But in a statement late Wednesday, the university's president, Richard L. McCormick, said, "If the charges are true, these actions gravely violate the university's standards of decency and humanity." At the kickoff event for the civility campaign, Mr. McCormick made an oblique reference to the case, saying, "It is more clear than ever that we need strongly to reassert our call for civility and responsibility for each other."

Mr. Ravi was freed on $25,000 bail, and Ms. Wei was released on her own recognizance. The lawyer for Mr. Ravi, Steven D. Altman, declined to comment on the accusations. A phone message left at the offices of Ms. Wei's lawyer was not returned.

Some students on the Busch campus in Piscataway seemed dazed by the turn of events, remembering their last glimpse of Mr. Clementi. Thomas Jung, 19, shared a music stand with Mr. Clementi in the Rutgers Symphony Orchestra.

On Wednesday afternoon, hours before Mr. Clementi's death, the two rehearsed works by Berlioz and Beethoven. "He loved music," Mr. Jung said. "He was very dedicated. I couldn't tell if anything was wrong."

Reporting was contributed by Al Baker, Barbara Gray, Nate Schweber and Tim Stelloh.

Correction: October 1, 2010

Because of an editing error, an article on Wednesday about a Rutgers student who committed suicide after video showing him in an intimate encounter was streamed on the Internet misidentified, in some editions, the hometown of Molly Wei, a student who was charged with invasion of privacy in the case. She is from Princeton Junction, N.J., not Plainsboro.

A version of this article appeared in print on September 30, 2010, on page A1 of the New York edition.

Get the full newspaper experience, and more, delivered to your Mac or PC.
Times Reader 2.0: Try it FREE for 2 full weeks.

Related Searches

- * Suicides and Suicide Attempts
- * Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey
- * Clementi, Tyler
- * Ravi, Dharun

-  Get E-Mail Alerts
-  Get E-Mail Alerts
-  Get E-Mail Alerts
-  Get E-Mail Alerts

 [COMMENTS
\(888\)](#)

 E-MAIL

 PRINT

 REPRINTS

INSIDE NYTIMES.COM

BUSINESS »

MOVIES »

OPINION »

MOVIES »

OPINION »

WORLD »

Patents Ending, Eli Lilly Chases New Drugs

Movie Review | Let Me In

Cyberbullying and a Student Suicide

A Room for Debate forum on whether the death of a Rutgers student argues for tougher laws against malicious acts online.

Movie Review |
Freakonomics

Line by Line: Hatching the Pot

For Some Germans, Unity Is Still a Work in Progress

Home | World | U.S. | N.Y. / Region | Business | Technology | Science | Health | Sports | Opinion | Arts | Style | Travel | Jobs | Real Estate | Autos | Back to Top

Copyright 2010 The New York Times Company | Privacy | Terms of Service | Search | Corrections |  RSS | First Look | Help | Contact Us | Work for Us
| Advertise | Site Map

MORE IN N.Y. / REGION (1 OF 34 ARTICLES)

Defendant Set Fire, Cheshire Prosecutor Tells Jury

Read More »